HELP FOR THE HOLIDAYS

Romantic Comedy

Help for the Holidays

Holiday enthusiast Will Van Camp fears his family has lost their Christmas spirit, so he sends a message to Santa pleading for his help. When Santa hears of young Will's plight he puts his finest elf, Christine, on the job.

After an intense training program, Christine heads from the North Pole to the real world to help Will, his sister Ally, and their parents Sara and Scott rediscover Christmas. The Van Camps own a year-round Christmas store, thus making Christine believe that her mission will be as easy as cooking a Christmas goose. But Sara and Scott are so busy they have forgotten important moments in their children's lives, like Ally's dance lessons and Will's basketball games.

With the help of Dave, the children's uncle, Christine inspires hope, infuses Christmas spirit and creates stability for Ally and Will. Christine teaches Sara and Scott how to open up to their children and find the balance between work and family life. All the while she and Dave begin to form a budding romance. Now, Christine must make the ultimate choice - leave the North Pole forever and start a new life with Dave or continue on her mission to help families unite at Christmas time.
